

The philosophy of PRSD is to provide challenging learning opportunities for all students by recognizing individual talents, strengths, interest, abilities and learning styles. Teachers shall give ongoing additional instructional support as needed to all the students in their charge during class time. Where feasible, they will also arrange for suitable out-of-class time for assisting students.

The Student Services Team provides more specific support and direction for the students.

The emphasis is on all students developing critical and creative thinking skills as a base for self-directed learning and problem solving. The key focus is on developing thinking strategies which can be integrated into all curricular areas. Advanced learners, students who can learn more deeply, move at a brisker pace, or make more connections, are given opportunities to develop their abilities and set appropriate learning goals.

Programming for enrichment is the ongoing process through which the professional staff recognizes and nurtures each student's potential through appropriate and challenging experiences and activities.
